It Is Safer To Live In Calloway Statistics Show

(Special to the Ledger & Times)
NEW YORK, Sept. 19 — From the standpoint of safety, it is far better to be living in Calloway than in most other places in the United States.

For the local resident, the hazards are fewer. He is less likely to become involved in an accident — fatal or otherwise — than elsewhere, the latest statistics show.

The general accident record locally is viewed in comparison with the records of other communities. It is based on data compiled by the U.S. Public Health Service as part of the Government's annual vital statistics survey.

The findings are of special interest because of the gathering in Chicago in a few weeks of safety experts from all over the country for the National Safety Congress. During the year ending January (Continued on Page 3)

Seen & Heard Around MURRAY

Dr. E. J. Steyer writes from Painesville, Ohio.

He is associate professor of history at Lake Erie College in Painesville. This is a girl's school of limited enrollment.

Dr. Steyer says that he is enjoying his new position, but misses the many pleasures that the family made here in Murray.

Jeanne Steyer remains here at Murray State where she is a music student.

The friends of Dr. and Mrs. Steyer wish them the best we feel sure.

Driving over to Paris yesterday we noted unmistakable signs of fall. The leaves on the trees are getting that odd look. Still green but a look of loss of vigor. A sort of waxy crinkled appearance.

Fernandina tries losing their leaves fast to disclose the orange goodies hidden only a week ago.

We have been expecting a protest from Rex Billington for the past week, but he apparently is long suffering.

We have been trimming the hedge at our house and the amount of cuttings from it have been enormous.

We have taken advantage of the city's once a week pickup of trash, limbs, etc. and already they have hauled off two loads of the stuff.

We piled it up again Saturday afternoon and if they'll please haul (Continued on Page 6)

Weather Report

By United Press International
Western Kentucky — Partly cloudy and warm today and Tuesday. Fair and mild tonight. Showers or scattered thundershowers Tuesday. High both days near 90. Low tonight 65-70.

FIVE DAY FORECAST
Kentucky weather outlook for the U.S. Weather Bureau for the period Tuesday through Saturday:
Temperatures will average 3 to 7 degrees above normal with only minor daily variations until it turns a little cooler near the end of the week. Normal highs for the period are 78 to 82, normal lows 53 to 59. Precipitation will total from one-half and three-quarters west and north to about one-quarter inch southeast. Most numerous during the latter portion of the week.

Patrol Mother Is Hired To Work In Douglas School Area

Mrs. William Hornbuckle has been employed by the city as a Patrol Mother to work in the vicinity of Douglas Elementary School.

She was employed last week following an interview with Mayor Holmes Ellis and City Councilman Charles Mason Baker, chairman of the council Police Committee.

Her duties will be to assist school children in crossing North Second Street safely and to slow traffic in the area of the school. During the last school year a student was struck by an automobile, but not injured seriously.

The move was taken by the Murray City Council in an effort to maintain the city's safety record in regard to school children. At the present time city police are stationed at Ninth and Main, 13th and Main and Williams and Main each morning and evening. Chief of Police Burman Parker usually cruises in the area of the schools at the same time.

Mrs. Hornbuckle will be issued a policeman's uniform and will have the authority to issue traffic tickets to offenders. The uniform will be a shade of blue and will be worn with a white shirt and cross-over tie. The hat is similar to a Navy woman's hat, with turned up brim. The hat is blue also with a white top. She will be issued a raincoat and an overcoat also. Mrs. Hornbuckle will be at the school during the times children are going to and from the school.

She is the wife of William Hornbuckle, makeup man at the Ledger and Times and has three children at Douglas Elementary.

Mrs. Hornbuckle is the first colored person to be hired in a police capacity as well as the first woman to be hired.

Mrs. Lowry reminded them that, "our America can only be as strong as its citizens. To be a good citizen one should inquire, think, vote, stand true, be honest, and pray."

The Mayfield president, Mrs. R. E. Andrus, presided and introduced Mrs. Lowry who was presented a corsage by the club. The invocation was given by Mrs. Ted Duran.

Mrs. John Cook sang folk songs and accompanied herself on the auto-harp.

Attending were twenty-two members and five visitors including Mrs. Lowry and Mrs. J. M. Converse of Murray.

The publishers of the Child's World Program of Chicago have announced that Mrs. Heloise M. Roberts has been honored with the company's Ruby Star Award. This award, the highest that the company can bestow, was for Mrs. Roberts' success in a major enrollment campaign this past summer. Managers and representatives of The Child's World Program in all 50 states participated in the competition.

Mrs. Roberts, mother of four children, is well known in library and educational circles in Kentucky and Tennessee. She has been a Regional Manager with the organization for over seven years and has won other national awards.

Children In Fourth Grades Given Jobs

The children in the fourth grade of Mrs. Mary Bell Overby at Robertson School are given certain jobs during the school year.

Listed below are the names of the children and their jobs:

Church Housing, president: Paula Lyons, vice-president; Janet Walker, secretary; Sandra Sue Roberts; treasurer; Mike Calley, tape recorder; Jean Ann Jeffrey and Sandra Scott, newspaper; Shirley Dunn, hostess of the door; David Elliott, cleaning room; Mary Devine, music books; Carl Hosford, hostess; Leon McDaniell and Eddie Jones, record player; Charles Lee and Sandy Johnson, filing cabinet; Bobby Rowland, closet; Pam Tucker and Nancy Herndon, librarian; Lisa Ellis, bookmobile; Harriet Evans and Van Stubblefield, decoration committee; Richard Story and Joyce Wooden, closet; Beth Pogue, Debra Cunningham, and Wanda Rolfe, book star committee.

The Oaks Country Club Ladies Day will be held Wednesday, September 23 with tee off time set for 8:30 a.m.

Pairings will be made at the hole. Hostesses are Dixie Hopkins and Sybil McCutcheon.

Dr. Hancock Heads Drive On Courthouse

Dr. Hunter Hancock, Professor of Biology at Murray State College and a prime mover in the local historical society's interest in the old court house, has accepted the chairmanship of the committee for its restoration.

Because of the pressure of unforeseen responsibilities Dr. Hancock stated that he appreciated Dr. Hancock's willingness to succeed him in this position.

The move was taken by the Murray City Council in an effort to maintain the city's safety record in regard to school children. At the present time city police are stationed at Ninth and Main, 13th and Main and Williams and Main each morning and evening. Chief of Police Burman Parker usually cruises in the area of the schools at the same time.

J. E. Littleton Taken To Hospital

J. E. Littleton was taken to the Murray Hospital Sunday morning where he received a transfusion following an attack of some kind. He fell ill on Saturday afternoon and on Sunday morning was taken to the hospital.

It was reported that he was resting well about noon today. Mr. Littleton has been a merchant for many years, operating first in Hazel and for the past twenty years or more in Murray.

NO FIRE CALLS

The Murray Fire Department had a very quiet weekend with no calls at all being received by the firemen.

Mr. Bob Grogan Is Honored Saturday On His 90th Birthday

Bob Dick Grogan was honored at a dinner held Saturday at noon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Burton Young, in celebration of his 90th birthday which was September 16.

Mr. Grogan is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Dick Grogan and the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Grogan. He was born in 1874 and was married to the former Flora B. Stubblefield, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Madison Stubblefield, on December 29, 1898. They will be married 66 years this December.

The Grogan couple reside at their small farm near Cherry Corner on Murray Route Five. Mr. Grogan still enjoys gardening, hunting, television and radio. He doesn't see too well to read, but does read the county newspaper each day.

Mr. and Mrs. Grogan are both members of the Seventh and Poplar Church of Christ and still attend quite regularly. They are the parents of four sons, Leon, Melvin, and Cleo, of Murray, Bobby of Louisville, and three daughters, Mrs. M. O. Wraether and Mrs. Burton Young of Murray and Mrs. Madison Smith of Atlanta, Ga. One daughter, Jessie Fay Grogan, died December 29, 1920.

They have ten grandchildren and four great grandchildren. Mr. Grogan wanted to express his thanks and appreciation to his friends for the many cards, gifts, and telephone calls he has received.

Present for the dinner on Saturday at the Young home were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Dick Grogan, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Stubblefield, Mrs. Bunnie Grubb, Ernest Grogan, Mrs. George Grogan, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Grogan, Eddie Grogan, Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Wraether, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Grogan, Isaac Grogan, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Smith of Atlanta, Ga., and Mrs. Bobby Grogan and children, Gary and Jennifer, of Louisville, Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Grogan, Charles Michael Grogan, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Woody Herndon, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Swann and Joy, James, and Carol Foubrey of Jonesboro, Ga., and Mrs. Kenneth Grogan, and Mr. and Mrs. Young.

Calloway Circuit Court In Session

Calloway Circuit Court convened this morning with Circuit Judge Earl Osborne on the bench.

Five incompetent hearings were held by the court. Judge Earl Osborne, an elderly colored man charged with malicious shooting, appeared today. He was not present on Thursday morning as ordered.

He pleaded guilty to the charge and was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. He was probation for a period of five years.

Tomorrow a civil suit, Billy Ferguson and J. B. "Rudy" Colson vs. Mr. and Mrs. McNeely of Lear Aurora will be heard. The case involves an automobile accident at the "Wye" near Egner's Ferry Bridge.

College High PTA Has First Meet Of Year

The Murray College High School PTA held its first meeting of the school year Thursday, September 17, at the school with Maurice Christopher, president, presiding.

Mrs. Christine Parker of the mathematics department of Murray State College, presented a most informative and interesting illustrative talk on the "New Approach to Math." She described the new method of teaching "why" certain facts in arithmetic are so and explained the new terminology used in the new method.

An appropriate opening speech on "Autumn" was depicted by poetry and songs by Mrs. Golda Waters' sixth grade, Leonard Whitmer led in group singing.

New PTA officers and chairman were introduced by the president as follows: Mrs. Christopher, copresident; Mr. and Mrs. Don Robinson, co-vice-president; Mrs. Mavis McManish, secretary; Mrs. Joe W. Dorch, treasurer; Mrs. Don Robinson, program; Mrs. Jesse L. Johnson, membership; Mrs. Joe West, business; Mrs. James Fee, health and safety; Mrs. Charles Ober, hospitality; Capt. Jim Perkins, publicity.

Vernon Shown, director of College High, was introduced and then introduced the faculty members.

The first conference of the First District PTA at North Marshall High School October 6 was announced.

Mrs. Ralph Tressener, Mrs. Paul Lynn, and Miss Sue Fairies had charge of the social hour. Mrs. Vernon Shown presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Christopher served coffee from the beautifully arranged table.

Frank Paxton Will Head Campaign For Johnson In State

By CAROLE MARTIN
United Press International
FRANKPAXTON, Ky. (UPI) — Frank R. Paxton's career in publishing, not politics.

"I've never been involved in politics in any way before," the 1964 State Democratic campaign chairman explained.

And while he finds his party job "very stimulating and interesting," he said he probably would not become actively involved in a campaign again.

The why was the 37-year-old publisher of the Paducah Sun-Democrat named to head the state campaign for President Johnson, his running mate, Hubert H. Humphrey, and Kentucky's Democratic congressional candidates.

"Where in the world did they come up with your name as chairman?" is the question he's most often asked, the mild-mannered businessman admits.

Sites Two Reasons
Paxton thinks there were two prime reasons he was selected unanimously for the post by the Democratic State Central Committee: 1. "Our paper has always been strongly Democratic and has given all-out support to Gov. Breathitt and all Democrats. At least they knew the feelings of the paper."

2. "There was the feeling that the Democratic party could be united because of my intimate association with virtually all Democrats in the state."

Former Gov. A. B. Chandler is the only notable exception to that association, but Paxton said Chandler, too, has agreed to campaign actively for the national ticket.

Local Lions To Observe 25th Anniversary

The Murray Lions Club will observe its 25th anniversary tomorrow night with a meeting at 7:00 p.m. in the Student Union Building on the Murray State College campus.

The local club was sponsored by the Fulton Lions Club in 1939. Principal speaker for the event will be Past Lions International president Finis Davis of Louisville.

Mr. Davis has served Lions International as first vice-president, second vice-president, and third vice-president and was president of Lions International for the year 1960-61.

He served as chairman of the Executive Council of the Board of Governors from 1953-54 and in 1954 he served a two year term as International Director.

He is a key member and a past Deputy District Governor and District Governor. Mr. Davis holds the Extension Award, 100 per cent District Governor's Award, the International President's Award, and is an Ambassador of Good Will.

Mr. Davis is a former superintendent of the Arkansas School for the Blind and a Past Director of the American Association of Instructors of the Blind. He was chairman of the United States Delegation to the World Conference of Educators of Blind Youth in Oslo, Norway in 1957 and was named a member of the Executive Council of the International Conference of Educators of Blind Youth. At the present time he is vice-president and General Manager of the American Printing House for the Blind in Louisville.

A number of dignitaries are expected to attend including State Lion Secretary Roy Caywood of Lexington and Governor of District 43-K Dr. Ellis M. Day of Owensboro. Local Lions will have their wives as their guests.

Joe Pat James, immediate past District Governor and a local delegation of Lions will meet Mr. Davis at the airport in Paducah and escort him to Murray tomorrow afternoon.

XB70 Could Cross Nation In 90 Minutes

EDWARDS AFB, Calif. (UPI) — The revolutionary X-B-70 "winged missile" made its historic maiden flight today to become the world's first forerunner of future supersonic airliners to take to the sky.

Flames gushed from the undercarriage as the wheels of the X-B-70 touched the landing strip but were fanned out by the time the plane came to a stop on the runway.

The triple-jet six-jet ship, one of the most controversial planes ever built and aviation's heaviest aircraft, swept over the Mojave on a brief but crucial one hour and five minute test hop.

Officials of the Air Force and North American Aviation, builder of the X-B-70, hailed the successful maiden flight as the first step in the development of future supersonic airliners that will dash across the nation in only 90 minutes.

As the X-B-70 shot 5,000 feet above the runway and streaked with spectacular power into the sky, looking like a giant white dragon, it heralded a new era of flight for large transport-type aircraft.

The ship streaked into the sky with an almost deafening roar as its engines generated a thrust equal to a thousand 200-horsepower automobiles. The engines, trailed dark exhaust into the clear desert sky.

An Air Force spokesman called it a "beautiful takeoff."

The Air Force said the event could spell "a turning point in aviation history" for the troubled, plagued experimental ship which has cost taxpayers $1.5 billion to put into the air.

Little Activity Is Reported By Police

Very little activity over the weekend was reported by the Murray Police Department this morning.

Chief of Police Burman Parker said only one minor traffic accident occurred in the city limits and this was Sunday night at 11:55 when Joseph David Poe of Jackson, Tenn., driving a 1964 Comet, was going north on Cherry Street, came to a dead end, lost control of the car causing it to hit a bank. No injuries were reported.

Only one public drunk was arrested by the Police this weekend.

Association To Meet On Tuesday

The Calloway County Retarded Children's Association will hold its first meeting in the new class room at the Robertson Elementary School on Tuesday, September 22, at 7:30 p.m.

This will be the first time the organization has met in the newly built class room. New equipment will be shown to the group.

All members are urged to attend and any interested persons are cordially invited to attend.

CUB PACK 37 TO MEET

Cub Scout Pack 37, sponsored by the Robertson School, will meet Tuesday evening, September 22, at 7:00 p.m. All boys 8, 9, and 10 years of age attending Robertson School and their parents who want to be a part of Cub Scouting should be in attendance. "We will register and complete our Charter Application for the coming year," a spokesman said.

UNDER GOD OR MRS. MURRAY?

ONE NATION UNDER GOD" is a phrase included in the pledge to the American flag, the words "under God" having been added following an act of Congress ten years ago.

Now Mrs. Madalyn Murray, an atheist who was successful in having official sanction being given her efforts to ban prayer and Bible reading in public schools and who has a suit pending in Maryland to end tax exemptions for churches, continues her battle against religion with yet another suit—one which seeks the elimination of the words "under God" from the pledge of allegiance.

According to Mrs. Murray's story which she told through a national magazine several months ago, she suffered such humiliation and persecution at the hands of her Baltimore neighbors after the Supreme Court had ruled in her favor in the public school prayer case that she and her son, John Garth, had to flee to Honolulu for asylum.

Apparently the change of scenery hasn't improved her disposition. Critical of intolerance in others, she continues to express her intolerance of all who hold beliefs different from her own.

Her lawyer has said that it would probably be three to six months before the case is heard, and the outcome "depends on the nature of the court and availability of judges."

He further says that the phrase "under God" in the pledge "constitutes a religious ceremony (when cited in school) and offends the First Amendment of the Constitution of the United States."

The idea is so silly we'd like to laugh—if it weren't so serious.

The tragedy is that there was a time when atheistic ideas such as Mrs. Murray's would have been shrugged off, whereas today they are given a sympathetic hearing plus the blessings of the highest court in the land. Founded on a recognition of the need for God's guidance, this nation is now guaranteeing the "right" to every remote anti-God movement that comes along. May the God Mrs. Murray so despises have mercy on us if we have come so far in "liberal" thinking that a person of her ilk is allowed a place of prominence and influence in American life.

As for Mrs. Murray's flight to Hawaii, our only regret is that she didn't flee far enough. If she had just kept on going, she could have ended up in Australia, and there she could have begun a brand-new campaign—an effort to help the British revise their national slogan, "God Save the King."

The Rest of the News

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Monday, Sept. 21, the 255th day of 1964 with 101 to follow.

The moon is full.
The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and Mars.
The evening star is Saturn.

English novelist and sociologist H. G. Wells was born on this date in 1866.

On this day in history:

In 1792, France was proclaimed a republic and the royal family was deposed.

In 1893, the first successful gasoline-operated motor car made in America—designed and built by Charles and Frank Duryea—appeared on the streets of Springfield, Mass.

In 1938, at least 450 persons were killed in a hurricane that battered the coasts of New England and New York.

In 1955, Rocky Marciano knocked out Archie Moore in the ninth round at Yankee Stadium, successfully defending his heavyweight title for the sixth time.

A thought for the day—English author H. G. Wells once said: "Human history becomes more and more a race between education and catastrophe."

Couple Operate An Unusual Ranch

COMFORT, Ark. 478 — Kurt Apelt and his wife are ranchers in a big way, but they raise armadillos instead of cattle. The Apelt Armadillo Ranch ships live animals to all parts of the nation.

Hundreds of the so-called "animal battleships" are sold every year, with winter months the big season when medical schools purchase armadillos for research. Apelt's father, the late Charles Apelt, founded the ranch 50 years ago. The armadillo, which has nine bands of armor circling the body, is found only in South Texas, northern Mexico and Florida.

"We understand that some armadillos originally were taken to Florida by Texans and got loose," Mrs. Apelt said.

She said the animals make good pets.

Win In Transition: Dessert To Table

SAN FRANCISCO 178 — Vacationing Americans by the thousands visit California's wineries each year. They admire the scenic vineyard country and the intricate processes and machinery that turn grapes into wine.

They also swallow a considerable number of free samples available in the tasting rooms maintained by many wineries.

But they buy only a drop more than 93 per cent of one gallon per person a year. In the same time, the average Frenchman consumes 35 gallons.

Despite this, there's an air of optimism in the huge California wine industry, which covers 477,000 acres, producing 80 per cent of the wine used in the United States.

Robert G. Mondavi of St. Helena, Calif., past Chairman of the Board of the Wine Institute, said California wines "at long last are receiving the broad-scale recognition which they deserve. We are well on our way toward that long hoped for goal of wine as a widely used mealtime and party-time beverage."

Mondavi said the American wine market is shifting from dessert wine to table wine.

"Some think this shift is the most significant change to occur in our industry during the past 30 years and I'm inclined to agree with them," he said.

He said after repeal and until the early 1950s "we had primarily a dessert wine industry" with sales volume as much as four times greater than table wine.

"Today sales of table wine are running over one-half those of dessert wine and—if present trends continue—California table wines will outsell dessert wines within five to seven years," he added.

Mondavi and his colleagues in the industry are determined that when that "long hoped for" goal is reality that it's an American wine and not a bottle of the European variety that sits next to the catsup bottle on the American dinner table.

European wines have long been a status symbol in the United States, a wine institute spokesman said, and attributed it, not to quality alone, but to the magic of the word

"imported."

Don W. McColly, president of the Institute, said U.S. wines are barred from the international market while foreign wines come freely into the United States.

McColly told the Tariff Commission and the Trade Information Committee in Washington, D. C., that "we are subject to restrictions which prevent our products from taking their place in the world market."

He said this is because of "extremely high tariff duties or import controls or multilateral treaties."

"By virtue of these restrictions the California wine and brandy industry is confined almost entirely to the United States market, unable to benefit through the development of foreign markets."

In the meantime, the wine growers are battling laws at home.

Jefferson E. Peyer, longtime attorney for the $700 million industry and a former California assemblyman, thinks interstate trade barriers against wine violate constitutional guarantees.

MSC and Austin Peay Lead Topsy Turvy OVC Race

By United Press International
Nobody ever expected that Murray State and Austin Peay would meet in a head-to-head battle for first place in the Ohio Valley Conference this football season, but that's what they'll do at Clarksville, Tenn.

The two OVC teams were the top surprises of a generally successful weekend for Kentucky college football teams, which produced six victories, two defeats and a tie.

Kentucky scrambled past Detroit, 13-6, on two touchdowns by Rodger Ford. Morehead upset Marshall, 6-0, in the Shrine Bowl game at Ashland; Western Kentucky came to life in the final period for a 14-0 victory over Southeast Missouri; Murray polished off East Tennessee, 26-14, in an OVC contest; Georgetown romped over Hanover, 41-6, and Kentucky State whipped Fisk 28-13.

The tie game was a scoreless affair between Centre and Wilmington.

The losers were Louisville, 10-7 to Western Michigan, and Eastern Kentucky in a 26-0 shocker at the hands of Austin Peay, the first OVC football victory for the Governors in eight tries and a sour beginning for Eastern's new coach, Roy Kidd.

Other action by OVC teams in nonconference competition included Middle Tennessee's 21-3 victory over Florence State, and Tennessee Tech's 27-0 shutout at the hands of Arkansas State.

Quarterback Charlie Forrest went 87 yards for a touchdown on Murray's first play from scrimmage and three 10 yards to John Watson for the second score. Fullback Tom Glover added two more touchdowns in the second half as the Racers operated mostly on the ground.

Western stumbled around for three periods before Sharon Miller connected on a 75-yard pass play with Jim Burt in the final period, and Bill Gleason swept over from five yards out in the final minute against Southeast Missouri.

Tom LaFroese set a new school record of 28 completions in 46 throws for 332 yards against Western Michigan, but Cardinal defenses were erratic. A 36-yard field goal by Mike Waters won it for the Broncos.

Austin Peay piled up 243 yards

Giants Had Big Shake Up Of Squad During The Off Season

By COURT BLOCK
UPI Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UPI) — Personal shakings usually are reserved for losing teams but the New York Giants underwent a thorough reorganization during the off season after annexing their third straight Eastern Division title last winter.

The shuffling was thorough enough to elicit some letters of protest from rabid Giant fans to the front office when they dealt rough-tough Sam Huff to the Redskins and sent tackle Dick Modestowski to the Cleveland Browns in a one-for-one giveup.

In addition, they lost veteran Andy Robustelli to the coaching ranks via retirement.

But Coach Alie Sherman has faced similar problems before. Last season he was confronted with the loss of standbys Ray Wietecha and Roosevelt Grier but came up with adequate replacements in center Greg Larson and ex-Ram John Lovers.

The Giants did not come up with the powerful running back they wanted and have lacked for the last few years.

Dick James came to New York from Washington in the Huff deal but at 5-foot-8, 180 pounds he doesn't figure to carry the bulk of the burden.

Rushing duties will once again go to Joe Morrison, 4.8 yards per carry, Phil King, 3.8, Alie Webster, 3.4, and Hugh McElhenny 3.2.

Newcomers to watch in that department are Home Jones, Stanford's Steve Thurlow, Oklahoma's Joe Don Looney, Ernie Wheelwright and Clarence Childs, a member of the last squad two years back, who paced 108 yards for a TD in the Giants' first exhibition game.

The Giants' long suit is receivers for Little's aerials.

Shofner Leads Receivers
Del Shofner caught 64 passes for nine touchdowns in 1963, fourth best in the league. Behind him are such reliable as Joe Walton, 6-foot-3 Aaron Thomas, 34-year-old Frank Gifford, Morrison, who had 31 receptions last year, mostly the screen variety and Bobby Crespino, Cleveland's bait for Little Mo.

A second-line receiver has been fortified with the acquisition of Andy Stynchula from Washington. Loveter, Jim Katacavage and Bob Taylor will likely complete the forward wall.

1. 1963, the survey shows, there were 9 fatal accidents among Calloway County residents, 3 of them attributed to motor vehicles.

The figures take into account accidents of all sorts affecting local people, wherever they may have occurred, but do not include local accidents involving non-residents.

Related to Calloway County, population, the accident toll was at the rate of 42 fatalities per 100,000 people.

This compares favorably with the figures for the United States as a whole, which averaged 52 per 100,000.

It was also below the East South Central States' rate of 62 per 100,000.

The magnitude of the accident problem may be gleaned from the national report, which shows that 100,500 lives were lost in the year.

Another 10 million persons, it is estimated by the safety council, suffered injuries that disabled them for more than one day.

Thus, for every fatal accident, there were about 100 non-fatal ones that required medical attention and restricted activity.

The cost of accidents in 1963, counting lost wages, medical and insurance payments, property damage, reduced production and the like, was approximately $16.3 billion, according to the council.

On a proportional basis, assuming the average amount per accident applies locally, the cost in Calloway County comes to $1,510,000.

Forrest, who played behind Tony Floravanti last season, carried 12 times for 132 yards and completed four of 11 passes for 56 yards.

After an East Tennessee punt late in the first quarter, Forrest led Murray on a 58-yard drive in five plays and capped it with a 10-yard scoring pass to end John Watson. Forrest's 26-yard pass to end Jerry Grantham set up the score on the first play of the second period.

Murray boosted its 12-0 halftime advantage to 26-0 by marching 73 yards in eight quick plays to open the third period. East Tennessee came right back with a 73-yard scoring drive in 11 plays as quarterback Larry Watson hit end Wayne Walt with a 10-yard scoring pass. Both teams scored fourth-quarter touchdowns.

The meeting will adjourn at 2:30 p. m. following Mrs. Kirk's message.

Mrs. Kirk is a homemaker, worker with women's and children's church organizations and assistant to the executive secretary of the Baptist convention in the state of Iowa.

She is a worker with children and teen-agers and an evangelistic visitor for her local church, president of the Woman's Missionary Union in the Salvador area, member of the Beta WMU, and member of the permanent literature committee of the Brazilian WMU, which involves writing programs, promotional materials, and devotionals.

She also has written a mission study book on Brazil which will be taught to intermediates in Southern Baptist Church of the United States in 1965.

The Kirks spent three years previous in Rio de Janeiro, where he held interim positions in publication and educational work.

Rio was also their home for the first few years after they were appointed missionaries in 1947 (they studied the language there and did publication work). Then they lived in Victoria for 10 years while Mr. Kirk was an evangelistic worker through the state of Espirito Santo.

November Wedding Planned

Miss Marybeth Bazzell

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bazzell of Murray Route Two announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their youngest daughter, Marybeth, to Keith Hays, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Hays of Murray Route Six.

The bride-elect is a 1963 graduate of Calloway County High School and is now a sophomore at Murray State College.

Mr. Hays is also a 1963 graduate of Calloway County High School and is also attending Murray State.

The wedding will take place Friday, November 27, at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the Union Grove Church of Christ. A reception will be held at the Murray Woman's Club House following the ceremony.

All friends and relatives of the couple are invited to attend.

Dear Abby . . .

Clerics' Corner!

Abigail Van Buren

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 21
DEAR ABBY: I don't know the circumstances which prompted the clergyman to ask the girl who was planning to be married if she were pregnant, but I have always found that there are two sides to every question.

I have personally married almost 11,000 couples, and hundreds of those couples have asked me to back-date the marriage license from one to five months. I kept an accurate record, and in one year out of the 556 couples I married, 354 asked that their wedding certificates be falsely dated. I rather imagine my experience is characteristic of most preachers and if I were you, I don't believe I would have cast this particular minister into "outer darkness" so quickly, without having heard HIS side of the story.

A KENTUCKY CLERGYMAN

DEAR ABBY: I was a practicing minister for a decade but now I am a lawyer. I can understand why a clergyman would ask a girl if she were pregnant before he undertook to perform the marriage ceremony. A marriage is a covenant freely assented to by two parties, and when the vows are not exchanged in freedom, the marriage is illegal according to the law and invalid also as a religious sacrament.

If the girl is pregnant, there can possibly be coercion on the part of the girl, her family, or even on the part of the groom. If the couple are being "forced" into marriage because a baby is on the way and they feel that marriage is the only solution to the problem, the marriage could be considered a "forced" one and, hence, illegal.

It is better that a child be born out of wedlock in some cases than for two persons to marry out of compulsion rather than love.

MINISTER TURNED LAWYER

DEAR ABBY: Come on, now. I've read your column faithfully and with admiration and interest, but that letter from the minister who was "disputed" because the clergyman asked her bride-to-be daughter if she were pregnant? Behaves me to put in my nickel's worth. I live in a small town, but I'd say that one bride in four has covered a pregnancy of from two to four months with a bridal gown and white flowing veil. Check with any clergyman and you will understand why he would ask such a question. It is embarrassing for them to have to baptize all those "premature" babies so soon after the wedding.

DEAR ABBY: I was disappointed to find one as knowledgeable, mature and influential as you rapping a clergyman for having asked a couple, who came to discuss their intended marriage, if the girl were pregnant. The minister was only doing his duty. A minister is not a "marryin' Sam." The reading of the ritual and pronouncing the couple husband and wife is only part of the pastoral obligation. It is important to learn if the couple has had premarital relations. If they haven't, they will be proud to say so. If they have, and are truly sorry, the clergyman can either give them absolution or invoke God's forgiveness.

Then, too, if the clergyman knows that the girl is pregnant, he can guide them in planning an appropriate wedding, if they sincerely desire to marry. Otherwise, he can

Explorers Study Guns For Program

The interest of Explorer members of the Boy Scouts of America in rifles and hunting has led a number of Explorer Posts in the Four Rivers Council to schedule a briefing on gun mechanics as a part of their post program, according to Forrest Martin, advisor to the Scout Council's Explorer cabinet.

Consultants to give rifle and hunting safety presentation are secured from a local National Rifle Association group or from the police, sheriff's office, military reserve, or a sportsman's group.

Included in the briefing are discussions and demonstrations of the mechanical features of a rifle and shotgun, importance of safety, and target shooting. In addition, some Explorer posts view a movie on safe shooting, conduct an outdoor demonstration, and participate in a hunter safety course.

Climax of the rifle program will be the ninth annual Explorer Rifle Match sponsored by the Boy Scouts of America and the National Rifle Association, one of the largest rifle matches in the United States.

Explorers compete with each other through the submission of approved targets which are secured in advance. Four Rivers Council Explorers will fire at Kentucky Lake Boy Scout Reservation on Saturday, October 10th. Their certified targets will be forwarded to the NRA in Washington, D. C.

There are both individual and team matches, and registered targets may be shot during October 1st. Deadline for the targets to be returned to the NRA is January 15, 1965, Mr. Martin said.

For the 1964 match, there were five national team winners, ten individual winners, plus a regional team winner from each of the 12 regions of the Boy Scouts of America.

Explains that there are alternatives. Some "forced" marriages are worse than none. In trying to exonerate you, I rationalized that maybe one of your staff had written the answer without your having seen it. It didn't sound like the DEAR ABBY I have been reading all these years.

A MINISTER
DEAR MINISTER: Thank you for giving me the benefit of the doubt, but I accept the responsibility for every answer that appears in my column. I confess that I was not aware of the necessity of a clergyman to ask a bride if she were pregnant. But judging from the number of reprimands I have received for having criticized a clergyman for having inquired, I was wrong. And I beg to be forgiven.

REBEL SHIP

By John Claggett

CHAPTER 30
THE long, high building had once been a warehouse. On its three floors that stretched for most of a block on Broad Street, thousands of wounded lay.

Many of them dated from Chancellorsville, fought a month earlier: the newer ones were from a score of skirmishes and fights, not dignified with the name of battle, but deadly enough for those struck down. Edward Huger, called Little Ed, distinguished himself from his father, had been wounded in one of these.

A long-legged convalescent at the main door greeted the Huger, and looked on a long, much-erased list kept in pencil on the smooth-boarded wall. After some study he directed them to the second floor, ward seven.

Edward and Merry Huger climbed the stairs side by side, supporting each other. Ras and Sam, loaded down with hampers, followed them.

Ras was contracting inside with dread. The letter from the little station up in Virginia had only said that Major Huger was seriously wounded and was now being evacuated to the main hospital in Richmond.

The upper floor was lined as far as the eye could see with rows of cots and beds. The Huger's stood dazed. Ras saw some patients up and around on rough creaking; attendants moved here and there, and many blackgarbed women stood or sat by the beds. Ras saw an attendant close by and went to him for directions to Ward Seven.

He led his mother there, then left her behind with his father while he moved unwillingly to the designated cot.

Deep sunken eyes, grayish puller, bloodless lips covered by the silken mustache he had remembered, the mouth tightly closed with a look to it of constant pain, Little Ed was very thin, and his face looked as old and worn as his father's.

Ras's heart gave a great thump of compassion and sadness, and he felt the old love for his brother welling up in him. His eyes moved down the bed; then he started. The flimsy blanket was unable to conceal that Little Ed's right leg ended at the knee.

The room whirled around Ras, the endless rows of beds, of wounded, of attendants, of visitors, women in black, women mourning, women in sadness before the shattered remnants of men dear to them. He looked back at Ed's face, and the eyes were open, gazing at him.

"Hello-Ras!" Ed murmured. Reprinted by arrangement with Scott Meredith Literary Agency, Inc. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

ed, and his hand moved weakly. Ras took it in his. "I was afraid—I might—not see again. Where—?"

Ras turned and beckoned to his parents. They came, slowly at first then faster with Merry Huger in the lead; she brushed past Ras, gave one low, gasping cry and was on her knees by the bed, her face against Ed's, sobbing very quietly.

Edward Huger stood on the other side looking down at his son, the slow tears moving on his tanned face. Then he knelt, and Ras moved to the foot of the bed, feeling his own eyes running over. He could not hear what his mother was murmuring.

Sam was standing by Ras, holding both hampers, and he too had tears on his cheeks. Ras looked hard at Ed. The grayish pallor had fled, and he was smiling. It had been nearly twelve days since he had been wounded. He had survived the field itself, the lying through half a night, the operation in a field dressing station, and the journey here.

Ras had a sure feeling that sooner or later Merry Huger would load her convalescent son in the back of the carriage, as she had planned, and take him home.

Merry and Edward Huger were flanking the bed, and something in their attitudes told Ras that they would stay so for a long time. Driven by longing and a curiosity to see what these men were like who had borne the brunt of the war so long and valiantly, Ras walked slowly down the endless room. The war groaned around him, the shorn of glamor and battle cry, with the putrid belchings of politicians always behind it.

But then... then... politicians or no, these men here had been wounded on their own ground. They had been fighting an invader. Nothing could change that. Ras had always thought of himself as a rebel. A fact no doubt caused by years of naval training that informed him that the authority of the United States Government was absolute. He had been a rebel, but now that changed.

This was a war of invasion. These men had known that, and they had fought. He, Ras Huger, had fought as a rebel. Well, rebel no more. He was a man defending his own cogency, as a man had to do when the politicians finished their talking.

A girl in a blue dress was close ahead. She wore a blue dress. "Hello-Ras!" Ed murmured. Reprinted by arrangement with Scott Meredith Literary Agency, Inc. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

Rule To Remember In Buying Furniture

By MARGERY McELHENTY
United Press International
CHICAGO (UPI) — Wood furniture should be bought with three values in mind — design, construction and finish.

In "The Complete Book of Interior Decorating," by Isabelle Stevenson and Mary Derieux (Hawthorne Books, Inc.), the authors recommended these points to select good furniture.

Design is largely a matter of taste, but remember the general principles of grace, suitability and comfort.

Hand construction no longer is the only sign of quality, as it once was, because much fine wood furniture is produced, at least partly, by precision machine work.

Good construction, unlike design, follows very definite rules. Examine the corners first because that is where the most stress occurs. Quality furniture will be joined by one of four methods:

—Mortise and tenon: A slot (mortise) is carved in one of the pieces to be joined and a tenon (peg) on the other piece is inserted into the slot.

—Dowel: Instead of a square tenon, a cylindrical dowel is attached to one piece and inserted into the joint of the adjoining piece.

—Tongue and groove: Similar to mortise and tenon construction but using more of the tip of the joint for insertion into the adjoining section.

—Dove-tail: Triangular-shaped pieces are cut from one piece and fitted to the triangles left in place on the second piece.

An additional quality mark of well-constructed furniture is the corner block, used for extra reinforcement. It should be screwed into the wood, not nailed, since nails are not used anywhere in well-constructed furniture.

If the furniture has hardware, it should be in scale with the piece and in harmony with the design.

The best grades of furniture have a finish entirely done by hand. It should show the grain of the wood clearly, even when it has been stained, and it should not glare.

Check whether furniture pieces are level with the floor. If a large chest of drawers seemed all right in the shop but is not even on the floor, there probably is a defect in the floor. Level the furniture with a small wedge because leaving it on the uneven surface often causes it to settle and throw the drawers out of line.

The quality of upholstered furniture is harder to judge since a large part of the wood framework is hidden and the cushioning is covered by fabrics.

The reliability of the retailer is a good clue to the quality of upholstered furniture he sells. But fact labels tell the material used in the frame, cushioning and cover.

The best wood for the frame is birch, white ash, rock maple or hickory. Springs should be coiled, finely tempered metal with closed ends, set close together and tied with heavy French webbing.

Long-stapled, curled horsehair, usually covered by a layer of cotton felt, is the best material for filling in over the springs.

Fabric covering is an expensive part of the entire upholstery job. Check seams, design-matching in fabric and general tailoring.

Make sure loose cushions are really loose, not attached at the sides and that reversible cushions are not covered with lining fabric on the under side. These two factors may double the life of your upholstery.

Expert Tabulates Energy Cost List

CARBONDALE, Ill. (UPI) — Sitting and thinking may be exhausting, but it can't match gardening or swimming, dancing or even ironing for burning up unwanted calories.

Frank Konishi, associate professor of food and nutrition at Southern Illinois University, has prepared a table of "energy cost" of various activities. It ranged from 4/10 of one calorie when lying at ease to 10 calories while swimming or running cross country.

One small cola drink (105 calories) will cost 35 minutes of walking, 11 minutes of swimming and 2,650 minutes of just thinking, he said.

To burn up the energy in an ice cream soda (255 calories) will require 255 minutes of playing cards, at a calorie per minute, or 64 minutes of golfing, or 26 minutes of trotting.

A piece of cake with fudge icing represents 230 calories and it would take 30 minutes of gardening or 32 minutes of riding a bicycle to absorb it, Konishi said.

Just one martini totals 140 calories, but it can be eliminated from your weight system by washing windows for 70 minutes, ironing for 40 minutes, or 350 minutes (almost 6 hours) of lying down.

Konishi's "energy cost" chart shows the following calorie absorption per minute: Lying at ease, 0.4; sitting, 0.5; standing, 0.8; playing cards, 1; playing the piano, 15; driving a car, 18; cleaning windows, 20; dressing, 25; walking at 3.2 miles per hour, 3; ironing, 31; playing drums, 31; golfing, 4; gardening, 4; dancing, 4; footrot, 4.2; rhumba, 6; tennis, 6.1; swimming, 10; and running, cross country, 10.

India Gets Diesel Plant

VARANASI, India (UPI) — A marked contrast between ancient belief and technological progress is apparent here in Varanasi, ancient Hindu holy center and oldest city in India.

The sanctity of the city — known during the British rule as Banaras — derives from its location on the Ganges, believed by Hindus to be a sacred river. The city also is believed to be the second abode on earth of the Hindu god Shiva.

Every day, hundreds of Hindus flock here to bathe in the river to purify their souls and pray to the sun as it rises across the Ganges. However, also in Varanasi one of the world's most modern industrial facilities, India's Diesel Locomotive Works is rising.

An American company, Alco Products, Inc., is the key behind this industrial complex which, when complete in 1965, will be the largest manufacturing plant for diesel-electric locomotives in the United States. It is the largest Indian government venture in which a U.S. firm has collaborated.

In Varanasi, a short trip by car takes you from one world to another. In the first, along the river, Hindu pilgrims bathe, meditate and cremate their dead on the ghats (steps) that lead into the water. In the other, also engineers and technicians provide supervision as the Indians create an entire city to help provide motive power for the burgeoning Indian railroads.

SEEN AND HEARD

that off, we'll just have one more little pill.

That was a good job on the culvert between Fourth and Fifth, just below the clinic.

Murray High will participate in the band contest at Princeton Saturday.

Looking over the Blue Spruce Saturday afternoon to see if any bad worms or anything else was on it and saw a big Praying Mantis. He must have just shocked his skin because he was green as grass.

Usually as they get full grown, they turn brownish and appear something like a stick. They eat insects and such other like hamburgers.

Watch one cat under a magnifying glass sometimes and you can see him lick his chops.

We wish that Murray High would place yard markers on the field. They hang on the fence now, but with people hanging on the fence too, you can't see them.

We get dizzy at every game, counting back from the 50 yard line.

CITY ORDINANCE

ORDINANCE NUMBER 418, BEING AN ORDINANCE DECLARING THE NEED, NECESSITY, DESIRABILITY, AND INTENTION OF THE CITY OF MURRAY, KENTUCKY, TO ANNEX CERTAIN CONTIGUOUS TERRITORY TO THE CITY OF MURRAY, KENTUCKY, AND ACCURATELY DEFINING THE BOUNDARIES OF THE TERRITORY WHICH CITY OF MURRAY, KENTUCKY, PROPOSES TO ANNEX.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE COMMON COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF MURRAY, KENTUCKY, AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION I. That it is needed, necessary, and desirable that the following described lands lying adjacent and contiguous to the present boundary limits of the City of Murray, Kentucky, be annexed to said City of Murray, Kentucky, and become a part thereof, to-wit: Beginning at the northeast corner of the present City Limits; thence east with the north quarter section line of the Southeast Quarter of Section 22, Township 2, Range 4 East, and the north quarter section line of the Southwest Quarter of Section 23, Township 2, Range 4 East to the west right-of-way of the L & N Railroad; thence south with the west right-of-way of the L & N Railroad to the present City Limits; thence west and north with the present City Limits to beginning point.

SECTION II. That it is the intention of City of Murray, Kentucky, so as to become a part thereof, the territory described in SECTION I hereof.

PASSED ON THE FIRST READING ON THE 21st DAY OF AUGUST, 1964.

PASSED ON THE SECOND READING ON THE 16th DAY OF SEPTEMBER, 1964.

Housewives Under 40 Typical Candy Buyers

CHICAGO (UPI) — The average candy buyer is usually a housewife under 40 who is influenced by her child to select a particular brand name in a plastic bag at the closest store to her house, according to one national survey.

The survey, made for American Viscose, indicated that candy was purchased by 76 per cent of 1016 women answering the questionnaires. Seventy-seven per cent said someone in the family bought candy, but only 70 per cent of 108 male respondents said they had made any family candy purchases.

The majority of families who did not buy candy said they refrained from indulging because they simply did not care for it. The next major reason was that candy was too fattening. Many old people felt they were "too old for candy" or said candy was "for kids." Other reasons related to health.

Most respondents said housewives did most of the candy purchasing, but 24 per cent said their children did the buying. At least 90 per cent of the parents interviewed said at least some portion of their purchases were made at their children's request.

In 45.1 per cent of the families which bought candy, parents were under 40 years old. Of the non-candy buying families interviewed, 70.8 contained adults over 40 years old.

Most of the persons questioned did the bulk of their candy purchasing at supermarkets or other places of convenience.

Brand loyalty was important to 54 per cent of the families. Major reasons for buying by brand were "like the taste," "good chocolate," "like the type," "children like it," "candy is fresh," and "more variety."

Approximately 45 per cent of the buyers said they bought candy for quick energy, 14.8 per cent to "survive" their appetites, 11.1 per cent because they "crave" or "need" it, 11.6 because "it tastes good," 11 per cent because "some sugar is necessary," 9.4 because it was "good if controlled," and 6.9 per cent because it was "nutritious and healthful."

The survey revealed candy is served with dinner by 18.5 per cent of the families, 24.1 per cent have candy with lunch, and 6.9 per cent thought candy was important for entertaining.

SPACE BACK PACK—It's a full scale mockup of the space back pack Ling-Tumco-Vought is developing for the USAF Systems Command for Gemini experiment. The pack, with an Earth weight of 100 pounds, contains hydrogen peroxide propulsion and automatic stabilization systems, nitrogen pressure vessel, oxygen supply, temperature and pressure regulating systems, power and signal batteries, valving systems, and two-way communications system including voice and telemetry. This back pack plus a smaller chest pack being developed by NASA form a Modular Maneuvering Unit designed to convert an astronaut into a one-man space vehicle for performing numerous tasks independent of his space vehicle.

Women Prove Versatile As Grads

NEW YORK (UPI) — Women write all kinds of books — on subjects ranging from atomic power to Zuni tribal customs.

A survey of Library of Congress listings for Barnard College graduates shows that nearly 2,000 books have been written by 640 Barnard authors in the last 75 years. The college made the survey in connection with observance of its 75th anniversary.

Subjects included treaties on industrial problems, guidebooks to almost everywhere, "how to" publications in a myriad of fields, as well as the expected novels and juveniles.

ASK QUESTIONS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Shopping for a home? This United States Savings & Loan League check list for loan officers can serve you, too. Ask these questions about each house you are interested in to see how it measures up to good design:

—Are major living areas oriented to the south? If not, is there an overriding consideration such as view or terrain?

—Is the west elevation protected from low sun angles?

—Are outdoor areas well related to the indoor plan? Is the kitchen handy to outdoor living areas?

—Is the kitchen layout functional? Does the kitchen control guest and family entrances. Does it supervise children's play areas?

—Can you move from garage or carport directly into the kitchen or work zone? Is the route from car to refrigerator less than 30 feet?

—Can the washer-dryer area be reached from the kitchen without changing floor level? Is it within 20 feet?

—Can you move from kitchen to children's rooms without passing through other rooms? Is the route less than 20 feet?

—Are children's rooms separated from the living zone by change of floor level, other rooms or sound isolation?

—Can children enter the house from play areas through the work zone or some entry provided for muddy shoes, coat hanging, etc.?
